Experience the perfect blend of historic McClellanville charm and modern custom construction at 153 Tarbell Lane. Nestled within the town's historic district, this thoughtfully crafted three-bedroom, two-and-a-half-bath home was completed in 2023. Designed by ADO Architecture and constructed by Spartina Building, the home showcases exceptional attention to detail, quality materials, and timeless design. A single-story layout with 10-foot ceilings throughout creates an inviting sense of openness, while the expansive 275-square-foot screened porch, complete with no-see-em screening, offers the ideal place to relax and enjoy the Lowcountry surroundings. Built to a standard rarely found in newer construction, the home features 2x6 wall framing, a rafter-framed roof with exposed rafter tails, and Pella Lifestyle Series windows with aluminum-clad exteriors and solid pine interiors. Insulation throughout both interior and exterior walls enhances energy efficiency, comfort, and privacy. Warm, natural finishes define the interior spaces. Genuine hickory cabinetry, stone and solid oak countertops, and solid 3/4-inch hickory flooring provide durability and character throughout the home. The living room features a wood burning fireplace. Additional upgrades include a whole-house reverse osmosis water filtration and softening system by South Atlantic Services,
